

April 23, 2013

To FCC,

The FCC should seek to uphold all forms of decency on television. Both profanity and nudity should not be allowed to be used or seen on television that just anyone including children can be exposed to. The FCC should continue to uphold their current standards and seek for ways to increase decency and not become more relaxed to it in any form. Relaxing rules and regulations only contributes to the corrupting influence of our youth and society. I am totally opposed to the FCC relaxing its decency standards!!

Sincerely,

Traci Kingsbury